Verge. Ponder the word. It's bursting with pent-up energy: possibly poised for greatness. In the case of VERGE Restaurant + Lounge at The Toll House Hotel in Los Gatos, it means culturally diverse California cuisine, beautiful backlit infusions and a generous selection of top shelfers.

The talented and friendly bar crew creates their own infusions, such as tequila with Thai peppers or vodka infused with Earl Grey tea: very forte, on both accounts. Bloody Marys or Marias are seriously spicy, martinis are expertly shaken and served in etched cocktail glasses and your glass of wine comes with a small pitcher and a stemless vessel. Pour at your own pace.

"With the new dining concept, we've created a lively social and culinary destination that showcases fresh, innovative Californian-fusion cuisine and authentic craft-cocktails," said Chef Nguyen-Phuoc.

And if craft brew is your thing, you might settle down for a mouthwatering bounty of bacon paired with beer. For a mere $14, you can sample turkey, duck and two kinds of pork bacon along with four carefully chosen beers.

Some of the locally sourced selections include 21st Amendment's Hell or High Watermelon Wheat, described as "summer in a glass." At 4.9% alcohol by volume, and packaged in a cool can, it's a spunky, refreshing beverage that is perfect for being enjoyed on the welcoming, spacious outdoor patio, complete with a waterfall making music in the background.

VERGE is open for cocktails and appetizers beginning at 4pm daily. Dinner service begins at 5pm. Breakfast is served daily, with a brunch on Saturday and Sunday from 6:30am til noon.
